Our (short) week in Review

This week we learned about the Little Red Hen and what it means to be helpful and thankful.

On Monday we read the story about The Little Red Hen and then we put the story in order ourselves by cutting and gluing the story sequence on paper!

Tuesday we created turkeys and wrote what we are thankful for on the feathers!

We hope everyone has a wonderful Thanksgiving break with family and friends! Remember there is no 4k on Monday, November 29th, and we will resume class on Tuesday, November 30th!

Holiday Book Exchange

We will be doing a class book exchange for the holidays this year. Each student can bring in a book wrapped in their favorite wrapping (with a tag indicating who the gift is from) to exchange with another student. Please see the red note in this week's folder for more details.

Outside Clothing

We have been fortunate that we haven't had snow yet, but it is getting colder. We do go outside everyday so don't forget to send a winter coat, hat, and mittens. When the snow does arrive, please send snow pants, boots and clean, dry shoes for the classroom everyday. Please do not sent scarves-as they pose a strangulation risk that we do not want to chance.

Please practice over thanksgiving break! It will be extremely helpful if ALL our kiddos can dress themselves independently!

Thank you to everyone for filling out our Holiday Sing survey we sent home last week.

Due to the amount of parents that voted for virtual, and said their child wouldn't attend an in person sing, we will be doing a virtual Holiday Sing.

We agree with this decision, as we believe the kiddos will be more comfortable in the classroom, and this way you will have a video to keep forever and to share with friends and family.

So our Holiday Sing will take place Thursday, December 16th during both AM and PM class time. Once edited, you will receive your child's class sing via email.

Again, thank you for your feedback, and thank you for your understanding.

Dry Shoes

Please remember to pack your child's dry shoes for the classroom.
